CRICAGO, March 2.—Nervousness over Washington's developments in regard to possible results of German attacks on armed merchant vesses had a certain heartsh affect on the wheat market here. The outcome was an unsettled close, be to be down, with May at Mills and July at M.W. Corn finished a shade to be off, outs unclanged to be up and provisions with gains of to to Ec.

Reports that President Wilson had said war between the United States and Germany might help civilization and bring the European conflict to an end by midwinner were coincident with the most decided downium of the day is the price of wheat. Quick announcement, however, that such an uiterance had been denied by Senator Stone was followed by a recovery in the market, although values continued to show, as during most of the preceding time today, an evident tendency to range lower than yesterday's finish. The chief exception was a bujge which took place upon receipt of advices that the German submarines having destroyed sores ships.

Senwfalle throughout the winter crop freet, though, by dispatches teiling of ferman submarines having destroyed oven ships.

Showfalls throughout the winter crop tales acted from the start as something a handicap on the whast buils, and so, of did lower quotations from Liverpool, evertheless, interest devolved to by far he greatest extent on the submarine mestion. Not much was heard of any xport demand for United States wheat, ut it was said some lots were disposed of. Corn averaged lower with wheat. Any adical decline, however, was checked by he fact that receipts were light and that he outlook was for an improved demesic demand.

Onts developed a little strength on account of signs of liberal buying for the shadowrd. It could not be definitely continued that important sales had been made for export.

Provisions were helped upward by insher quotations on hogs. Weakness of rain caused a reaction, but in the late respections packers who early in the day lad been sellers appeared to have turned to the buying side.

HOGS—A very moderate Thursday run of hogs was received today. Arrivals were estimated at 190 cars, or 11,500 head, bringing when total for the week to date up to 54,514 head. This is a decrease of 14,600, as compared with last week, 12,000 smaller than two weeks ago and 2,000 short of the same days a year ago. On the early rounds the hog market presented pretty much the same aspearance as on previous days of the week. Shippers and one or two of the packers had fairly broad orders for the good butcher weight and any hogs and linder the influence of good competition prices on those gradus scored a full $6400 rd-vance. A good share of the sales madearly landed at $5,500,500 and several loads sold as high as $6,50 and several loads sold as high as $6,50 and several loads sold as high as $6,50 and since 1914. As noted above one or two of the packers got into the game on early rounds, but with the thers holding back mixed and light hogs were entirely neglected many failing to even attract a bid up to mid-forencon. The result was that white discrable grades were pretty well cleaned up by 10.20, not even a start had been made on the other kinds.

Wheat Shipments Are Expected to Grow from State

Omaha wheat receipts continue light, but with the Burlington lifting the embargo on shipments from its territory in sebraska and Kansas much larger quanties of the cereal may be expected soon. Some time ago when the soft corn comnenced to move to market in large quantitles the Burlington placed an embargo on wheat shipments from many of its stations, turning all surplus cars over to shippers in order that they might get the soft corn out of the way. As a result a larger portion of this corn has moved sut, and from now on wheat from country elevators will be received for shipment to market.

Wheat receipts for the day were thirtyseven carloads and prices were one-halt to 14 cents up, selling at 980g/$1.03 per

Corn was up a couple of cents, selling at 56865 cents, with sixty-five carloads on the market.

Aged sheep made up a very small proportion of the total supply, but found the outlet much narrower than on most previous days of the week, and as a general thing swee were met with demands for lower prices. None had been cashed up to a late hour.

In fact, it was almost noon before traders got down to business, but sellors suck until they carried their point, and when they finally out loose it was on a steady basis. Advances of substantial fractions to a point or more were registered at the opening and some specialties made greater headway, but these gains were soon forfeited on moderate selling orders. During the mid-session the early price level was regained and in some instances exceeded, mainly in consequence of the increased disbursements declared in Utah, Butte and Superior and Chino Coppers.

The most interesting news from abroad was contained in cables announcing the virtual closing of the London metal market to prevent further speculation in copper and allied products. This occasioned no surprise in local circles, where the stifficial character of the foreign markets for those commodities had long been a matter of gossip.

Large net gains for January were reported by the Atlantic Coast Line and the New Haven.
